RJR Nabisco withdrawals tobacco legislation support

WASHINGTON, D.C. — RJR Nabisco announced April 1 that it will no longer support the tobacco legislation now moving through Congress.

Four other tobacco manufacturers — Philip Morris, Lorillard, Brown and Williamson and U. S. Tobacco — are expected to pull out of the deal, sponsored by Sen. John McCain (R-Ariz.). The tobacco giants have said that they will stand by the deal negotiated with state attorney generals last June and that the new deal does not provide them enough protection from civil lawsuits. The new deal also requires them to pay $516 billion over the next 25 years and imposes fines if teen smoking does not drop dramatically.

Two Serbian war criminals arrested by NATO in Bosnia

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Two Serbians suspected of committing war crimes have been arrested by NATO-led forces in Bosnia. Miroslav Kvočka and Mladen Radic were indicted in February 1995. The two are associated with the prison in the town of Omarska. Spokesman James P. Rubin coupled the announcement of the two's capture with a call for Radovan Karadzic, probably the most notorious war criminal, to turn himself in. "Mr. Karadzic has no place to run and no place to hide," Rubin said.

Starr completing report on Clinton/Lewinski scandal

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Several sections of the report by independent counsel Kenneth Starr have been completed. The report details actions by President Bill Clinton involving Monica Lewinski and could possibly lead to impeachment. Starr is planning to complete the report to submit it to the House of Representatives, which has the power to initiate impeachment hearings, by May. However, that date could change because portions of the investigation have yet to be completed. Starr is investigating whether Clinton had sexual relations with Lewinski and subsequently told her to lie about them.

Six to receive honorary degrees

Special presentations planned for commencement ceremony

Old Gold and Black Staff Report

The university will award six honorary degrees during the May 18th commencement ceremony.

White House chief of staff Erskine Bowles, who will deliver the commencement address, will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree. Bowles has also served as an assistant to the president and as a deputy chief of staff.

An honorary doctor of divinity degree will be presented to Joan Brown Campbell, a general secretary for the National Council of Churches. An ordained minister, Campbell has led the NCC in its efforts to address violence, health care, welfare reform, the urban crisis and the role of religion in public life.

Henlee Barnette, a clinical professor of psychiatric and behavioral sciences at the University of Louisville School of Medicine, will receive an honorary doctor of divinity degree.

Barnette, an ordained minister, works for social justice and reforms, focusing on race relations. He is a graduate of the university.

Eugene Corrigan, a former commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference, will be presented an honorary doctor of laws degree. Corrigan has held leadership roles with the National Collegiate Athletic Association and is a former college athlete, coach and athletic director.

An honorary doctor of letters degree will be awarded to Romulus Linney, a nationally acclaimed author and playwright. Linney is a playwriting professor with the Actors Studio at The New School in New York and has held teaching positions at this university and Columbia University.

Anthony Fauci, the chief of laboratory immunoregulation and the director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, will receive an honorary doctor of science degree.

Fauci's research on immune-mediated diseases has contributed to the understanding of how the AIDS virus destroys the body's defenses.

SG schedules referendum on constitutional reorganization

Old Gold and Black Staff Report

The student body will vote April 15 for a 'reorganization' of the constitutional amendment approved in the March 24 referendum.

"Primarily, there will be no new content. It is just a reorganization for user-friendliness," junior Ryan Opel, a co-chairman of the judiciary committee of Student Government, said. According to Opel, the constitution is now difficult to understand. The constitutional referendum would make the constitution more clear.

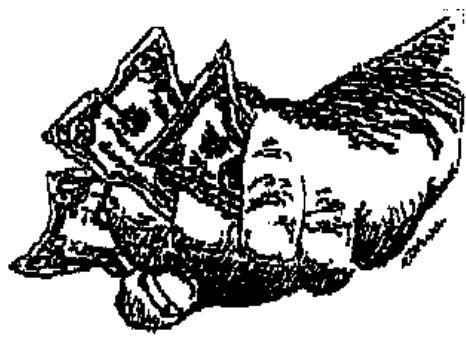

In the March 24 judicial referendum, students voted to change the SG constitution and the existing judicial system. The referendum specifically pertained to two sections of the constitution. Section I dealt with function and Section II concerned composition.

In the constitutional referendum, all of the articles would be put in Section I. Also in the referendum, the rights of the accused will be put into Article I of the constitution, which is the student bill of rights.

According to Opel, the draft is being approved by Ken Zick, the vicepresident for student life, who has been involved with the judicial process this year. The SG legislature will vote on it April 14. Also the student body will vote in a run-off between Opel and Jen Steinberg for speaker of the house and between junior Thomas Hollingsworth and sophomore Taylor Campbell for treasurer.
