

Crews sever phone line to Palmer, Piccolo, WFDD

By Austin Harris
Assistant Online Editor

A campus-wide e-mail sent by the university's news service on April 23 notified students of a disruption to telephone services and the fire alarm notification systems for several residence halls and buildings, including Palmer Residence Hall, Piccolo Residence Hall, WFDD, the Anthropology buildings and the Golf Center.

Construction crews working on the new Student Athlete Enhancement Center had severed a telecommunications cable buried underground. The line is a "300-pair copper cable that carries the telephone signal from telephone handsets to the main switching device in Reynolda Hall," Jay Dominick, an assistant vice president and chief executive officer for Information Systems, said. "In building that facility, one of the subcontractors, using a backhoe, cut through a buried cable, one that was clearly marked," he said. This incident is the second disruption caused by construction crews working on the athletic center. "They cut it within about 30 feet of where they cut it before."

The problem occurred around 3 p.m. April 23 and was fixed by 5 a.m. the next morning. Contractors, hired and supervised by the telecom office, worked all night long repairing the broken section. The fix involved cutting out a five-foot section of cable, then obtaining a replacement cable of the same length.

Crews then had to match up and attach each of the 300 color-coded copper wire pairs at each end in order to restore phone service. Telephone and fire alarm services were back in operation by 8 a.m.

Dominick expressed concern about the disruption, calling it "a really annoying problem."

He said, "There is no way this should have happened. The subcontractor was just ... wrong."

Freshman Courtney Ellers, a resident of Piccolo Hall, said that the service disruption was not a major problem. "I think everyone's just taking it in stride. Obviously, if there were emergencies, there are public phones out here and the RA's have cell phones, so it wasn't that big of a deal at all," she said.

has more than doubled over the past two years."

The campaign strategies of the candidates varied, but all worked to reach a record number of students. O'Reardon, a secretarial candidate, described walking the campus, distributing fliers and being introduced to many new students. O'Reardon said, "Although I am certainly disappointed that I lost, I received forty percent of the vote. Almost half of the student body recognized my platform and wished for me to implement it into our student government. Before running for secretary I had no SG experience, the experience of running for office has really motivated me to become involved in our school. I can only hope that other students will have similar campaigns and realize just how much of an influence we can all have on our campus." Miller, the newly elected Treasurer, said, "My love for people and projects made it all possible. Campaigning was work but fun, and so many people are interested. After such support for very qualified candidates, I'm excited and looking forward to next year." Ramsey, the new speaker of the house, said, "The waiting period can be very trying. Many of the candidates sacrifice sleep and studying during the busy week of campaigning. Overall, I am glad that election has come to a close and that our team of executives has been assembled."

Carlson, who has witnessed four SG elections, was glad there was a lack of controversy in this race. Carlson said, "For the past two years, we have had problems with endorsement and campaign rules. Although we had more candidates this year, they were responsible and even when tensions were high and margins were rapidly narrowing, everyone tried to be fair. I wish the best of luck and congratulations to everyone."

I'm excited to see what they will do, because they all ran a very good race."

postseason play six of seven seasons, including four trips to the NCAA Tournament. Xavier went 21-8 in 2001 and lost in the first round of the NCAA Tournament to Notre Dame.

Prosser's teams tend to be high-scoring, playing aggressive full court defense replete with plenty of fast-break opportunities. To the delight of many of the current players, Prosser, who will bring all four of his assistant coaches from Xavier with him, said that his teams will play the same style in Winston-Salem.

Junior Craig Dawson said he was impressed with his new coach and was looking forward to playing at a quicker pace. "He said we are going to run, we are going to press, and we are going to win and that's one thing we have always wanted to do," Dawson said.

Prosser inherits a team that capped a disappointing 2000-01 campaign with a 10-point first-half performance against Butler in the NCAA Tournament. After jumping out to a 12-0 start, the Deacons floundered down the stretch finishing 19-12 and 8-8 in the ACC. The Deacons also lost in the first round of the NCAA Tournament and suffered a first-round defeat in the ACC Tournament for the third time in four years.

"We are going to win and we are going to have a lot of fun doing it," Prosser said.

Prosser said that he understands the daunting task ahead of him with Final Four teams like Duke and Maryland, as well as perennial contender North Carolina in the conference, but said that he knew a thing or two about winning himself.

"I may not know a whole lot about the ACC, but thanks to Ron I did stay at a Holiday Inn Express last night," Prosser quipped. "I know how difficult it is. In all honesty that it is certainly one of the challenges that excites me. The kids came here to play against those teams, and I came here to coach against those coaches and those teams."
